Modeled after Wisconsin's own unemployment compensation plan in the 1930s, federal unemployment insurance has long been considered one of the most important public policy achievements of the New Deal. Always paying benefits according to legislative and administrative guidelines and never requiring a taxpayer bailout, the program has nonetheless undergone strains induced by structural changes in both the economy and the prevailing political milieu. An outgrowth of a conference to celebrate the program's fiftieth anniversary, the papers collected in this volume describe the history of the program, analyze the strains it has undergone and that it faces in the 1990s, delineate the source of current debates over unemployment compensation, and offer suggestions for the future of the program.

Love on the Rocks John Wiley & Sons

"Love's Labour's Lost is one of William Shakespeare's early comedies, believed to have been written in the mid-1590s for a performance at the Inns of Court before Queen Elizabeth I. It follows the King of Navarre and his three companions as they attempt to swear off the company of women for three years in order to focus on study and fasting. Their subsequent infatuation with the Princess of France and her ladies makes them forsworn. In an untraditional ending for a comedy, the play closes with the death of the Princess's father, and all weddings are delayed for a year. The play draws on themes of masculine love and desire, reckoning and rationalisation, and reality versus fantasy. Though first published in quarto in 1598, the play's title page suggests a revision of an earlier version of the play. While there are no obvious sources for the play's plot, the four main characters are loosely based on historical figures. The use of apostrophes in the play's title varies in early editions, though it is most commonly given as Love's Labour's Lost."

MTEL English as a Second Language - Test Taking Strategies Penguin

"The title of this volume is, of course, taken from 2 Kgs 6:1, where the prophetic group about Elisha point out that their accommodation is too cramped. It seemed an apt comment on the capacity of any proposed volume to house and adequate representation of the work that has recently been done on Israelite prophecy. To this I now have to add the all-too-ironic confession that the so-called pre-classical prophets (including Elisha and his colleagues) could not be accommodated in the present volume. Let no one complain about being misled by the subtitle when the title is so honest ... there are thirty-six items of varying length, and they divide almost equally between journal articles and excerpts from volumes (some of these of composite authorship). Naturally, they represent one individual's selection from within his personal reading, and this itself accounts for only a fraction of the vast scholarly output on the prophets, whether since 1875 or since 1975 ... It will be apparent at several places in the volume that I take with great seriousness the study of Near Eastern (non-Israelite) prophecy as background to the Israelite phenomenon, so that the first short section (The Near Eastern Background") was unavoidable."--Editor's preface.

Allan Krosch has led an interesting life, and collected colourful stories of people, places, historical events and memorable facts that he shares with ease in conversation and in the pages of this book. Now in retirement from his career as a civil engineer, he gives us access to some of the people he met, the changes he has witnessed in his life and work, and the wisdom he has gathered as an observer and a leader of people. In 'Little Things That Stick in the Mind - Some Stories from my Life Experiences', we read about his early life on a small-crop farm in a part of Brisbane that was reclaimed to build the Brisbane airport. We are also present at family and social events, overseas work travel, and we witness some of the mischief he instigated, as well as the near-misses he luckily avoided. Allan spent his career at the Department of Main Roads (later Transport and Main Roads) working, as he likes to say, 'For the good of the people of Queensland!' In addition to his Engineering qualifications, Allan has degrees in Economics and in Business Administration. Apart from family, and especially grandchildren, Allan's interests include managing family investments, playing golf, and singing in a choir. His primary motivator is solving challenges. These include cryptic crosswords, sudoku puzzles and home maintenance issues. The latter do arise from time to time for someone who has lived for 45 years (with his wife of now 51 years) in the same house - which was built in 1910. But that is another story.

A disgruntled British veterinary technician has access to a large repository of animal diseases at Britain's main veterinary laboratory. To exact revenge for his mistreatment, he steals samples of highly infectious agents for animal diseases and sells them to al Qaeda. Ayman al Zawahiri, the head of al Qaeda, decides to use the agents to mount a bioterrorism attack on the US. He first does a trial run with the causative agent for mad cow disease to check whether it would work. The agent is sprinkled on restaurant food and causes four cases of a horrific disease, Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease (CJD) which is also caused by the mad cow disease agent. Al Zawahiri then decides to use all the infectious material he bought to attack US farm animal production. Winston Sage, a retired epidemiologist who had previously helped the FBI interdict a terrorist attempt to poison US food supplies, is invited to help investigate the four cases of CJD. While the investigation is flubbed and going nowhere, the terrorists introduce foot and mouth disease, Rinderpest, swine flu and Newcastle disease into US herds and flocks via placing the infectious agents into feed supplies. These are highly contagious and deadly diseases of livestock. The terrorists also spread a fungal disease of wheat by aerial spraying of fields with fungal agents. Devastating economic damage is inflicted on US agriculture, to the tune of billions of dollars of losses. As a result, no one will buy US meat or wheat. It also leads to demonstrations and riots by alarmed citizens. Sage is left furious about the incompetence of the CIA and FBI and the ruthlessness of al Qaeda. He is invited to a meeting with the US President and recommends a complete overhaul of intelligence activities, with which the President agrees..
